TUESDAY JUNE 22
ARRIVAL & EMBARKATION
DAY 1

Upon arrival at Longyearbyen Airport, you will be warmly greeted by our staff and transferred into town, where you will have free time to explore this charming and easily walkable Arctic settlement.

We recommend beginning your discovery at the excellent Svalbard Museum, offering fascinating insight into the region's history, wildlife, and exploration heritage, along with a selection of unique polar books and maps.
Take in the striking views of icy fjords and mountains that surround this former coal-mining town and enjoy some time browsing local shops for souvenirs or any last-minute essentials, including cold-weather gear. Please note that you will soon receive your own expedition parka to keep, along with waterproof boots.

In the afternoon, you will be transferred to the pier, where we will warmly welcome you aboard the deluxe expedition vessel, M/V Sea Spirit. Settle into your spacious suite and take time to familiarize yourself with the ship, your comfortable home for the journey ahead.

As we set sail, your adventure truly begins with a series of informative briefings and introductions from our expert expedition team. Following your first of many delicious onboard dinners, step out onto the open decks to take in the breathtaking scenery under the magical 24-hour Arctic daylight, as we cruise through the wildlife-rich waters of Isfjorden.

JUNE 23-29 DAYS 2-9 WEST SVALBARD & POLAR ICE EDGE

The itinerary for this voyage focuses on the spectacular fjords, coasts, and islands of western Spitsbergen, the main island of the Svalbard archipelago. This region offers some of the Arctic's most impressive scenery and outstanding wildlife viewing.
Our exact route will depend on weather and ice conditions, with opportunities to spot polar bears and other iconic wildlife throughout the journey.

One highlight is South Spitsbergen National Park, a vast wilderness of polar deserts and dramatic mountains. At its heart lies Hornsund, a stunning fjord where glaciers cascade into icy waters. Seasonal fast ice provides excellent chances to observe polar bears hunting seals. The area also includes Bellsund, where remnants of historic whaling—boats, cabins, and whale bones—remain frozen in time. This region offers rewarding hikes through landscapes rich in Arctic flora, birdlife, and geology.

We also explore Northwest Spitsbergen National Park, one of Svalbard's most scenic areas, with deep fjords, sharp peaks, and massive glaciers calving into turquoise waters. The skies and cliffs come alive with millions of nesting seabirds, while whales and seals are often seen in the surrounding waters. Traces of early Arctic explorers and hunters can also be found here.

Our journey includes Forlandet National Park, home to Prins Karls Forland, one of the best places to observe walrus hauled out on shore. In North Isfjorden National Park, we may encounter Svalbard reindeer grazing and Arctic foxes roaming the tundra. We will also visit Ny Ålesund, one of the world's northernmost settlements, now an international research station with a small museum, shop, and post office. A key goal of the voyage is reaching the edge of the polar pack ice, where sea ice meets open ocean. This is prime territory for observing polar bears and seals, and we will approach as closely as conditions safely allow. At this time of year, the ice edge lies relatively near Spitsbergen, minimizing time in open seas.

The West Svalbard and Polar Ice Edge route offers a remarkable variety of Arctic landscapes and wildlife, with minimal sailing between landings. Each day brings new opportunities to experience dramatic scenery, encounter wildlife, and follow in the footsteps of historic Arctic expeditions.

JUNE 30 DAY 10 DISEMBARKATION

After filling up with one last buffet breakfast on board, we bid you farewell in Longyearbyen. We provide transfers to the airport or to the town center in case you plan to stay longer in Svalbard.

WHAT ANIMALS DO WE SEE ON OUR EXPEDITION?

POLAR BEAR
URSUS MARITIMUS

World's largest land predator as males reach 1500 pounds and female around 700 pounds. Polar Bears rely on Sea Ice to hunt and survive, and without it they face certain extinction. We will be extremely privileged to see the bears from our boat and if possible we'll lower the Zodiaks and get as close as possible. Svalbard is considered as the one of the best places in the world.

WALRUS
ODOBENUS ROSMARUS

These enormous marine mammals reach weights of over 2,000 pounds, although they feed primarily on clams, gulping as many as 4,000 clams in each dive thanks the their strong suction force. Their tusks are used for combat against other males, but also as a weapon against Polar Bears and as a tool to help them climb onto the sea ice.

ARCTIC FOX
VULPES LAGOPUS

This small predator is a true survivor in the harsh conditions of Svalbard. Without the body fat its bigger competitors posses, it has the most insulating fur in the animal kingdom and must eat constantly to survive. We will land on one of our favorite beaches where the Arctic Foxes have their lair beneath a gigantic bird cliff, where mother fox has plenty of opportunities to feed her young pups.

MIGRATORY ARCTIC BIRDS

Svalbard is home to millions of birds that migrate to this extreme corner of the world to mate and raise their offsprings. Little Auks, Seagulls, Kittiwakes, Barnacle Geese, Arctic Terns, Red Throated Loons, Puffins and many many others. The endless daylight, plenty of food and few predators provide the best conditions around. But this doesn't mean it's easy for them.

More Frequently Asked Questions…

Optional Pre-nights in Oslo
Pre-nights in Oslo are recommended prior to your flight to Longyearbyen. All flights to Longyearbyen operate via Norway only, with direct connections from Oslo and Tromsø. Travelers from the USA, Europe, or Israel typically fly into Oslo before continuing a three-hour flight to Longyearbyen. SAS and Norwegian Airlines operate these routes, with increased frequency during peak season.

During your time in Oslo, you can enjoy one to two days of light touring, including visits to the Viking Ship Museum, Fram Polar Ship Museum, and the impressive Oslo Opera House. A stroll along the Aker Brygge waterfront, a walk through Vigeland Sculpture Park, and exploring the charming city center are also highly recommended.

Kosher Travelers will provide detailed recommendations for where to stay, eat, and pray in Oslo on Sunday 20 and Monday 21 June as well as guidance on the recommended and preferred flight to book and arrive in Longyearbyen on Tuesday June 22 in time to take advantage of our airport transfer.

In addition, you will receive a comprehensive pre-departure orientation letter, and we will host a Zoom "meet the group" session prior to sailing to answer any questions and help you prepare for the journey.

When is the best time to take an Arctic cruise?

The best time to take an Arctic cruise is during the summer months, from late May through early September. This is when the region is most accessible, with milder temperatures, longer daylight hours, and optimal wildlife viewing. In peak season June–July, you'll experience the magical midnight sun, lasts 24 hours, along with ideal sea ice conditions for exploring remote areas, opening more routes for navigation and increasing chances of spotting whales, while still offering excellent opportunities to see polar bears and other Arctic wildlife.

Do I need travel insurance?

Yes, you will require travel insurance that covers you for the duration of the cruise. Please ensure that it includes travel to the polar regions and has an evacuation and repatriation coverage to a minimum benefit od $200,000 per person.

We strongly encourage passengers to also have cancellation health and luggage insurance.

A typical day aboard our expedition ship

Our goal is to showcase the very best of The Arctic; its wildlife, landscapes, and unforgettable moments. Weather permitting, each day typically includes two immersive excursions, such as landings on pristine shores, scenic hikes for all levels, and Zodiac cruises that bring you close to nature and wildlife. For a more personal experience, you can also join the kayak program and explore at your own pace.

Life onboard the Sea Spirit is just as enriching. Enjoy expert-led lectures, photography guidance, and even visits to the ship's bridge, or simply unwind in the jacuzzi, library, or lounge areas. Stay active in the gym, take in panoramic views from your cabin, or connect with fellow travelers over a drink. Dining is a highlight, with gourmet kosher meals served daily, and special moments such as an open-deck BBQ. For the adventurous, the Polar Plunge offers a thrilling Arctic dip; while others can cheer from the sidelines. With a balanced mix of exploration, learning, and relaxation, each day is thoughtfully designed to deliver a rich and unforgettable Arctic experience.

When stepping ashore...

While you already get the best views from our small expedition ship, the Sea Spirit, cruising ashore with our Zodiac boats will bring you even closer to the action. These motorized, safe and durable boats are designed for a maximum of 14 passengers and are perfect for ecologically-sound cruising, minimizing your impact on nature and wildlife.

Visit the captain's bridge to be the first one to spot wildlife. Pick up binoculars, chat with the crew, or just simply enjoy the best views from this part of the ship. We bring top scientists aboard and encourage our passengers to participate in their research.

Visit our gym whenever you feel the need to stretch your legs or take a stroll on deck and take in the fresh ocean breeze.

How far in advance do I need to book an Arctic cruise?

To secure the best cabins it's recommended to book your Arctic cruise as early as possible. Availability is limited, and by booking well in advance, you increase your chances of choosing your preferred dates, accommodations, and enjoying cost-saving benefits. Don't delay, it is high time to visit The Arctic! Start planning your extraordinary Arctic cruise today!

How much luggage can I bring?

It's always best to pack for the segment of your flight itinerary that has the smallest baggage allowance requirement - baggage allowances on international flights are often larger than domestic flights. Also, be sure to check with your airline to confirm what you are allowed to carry.

The Sea Spirit has laundry facilities. Closer to sailing departure we will send you a more comprehensive and recommended packing list

Will there be Wi-Fi, phones or mobile coverage aboard?

Our expedition ship, the Sea Spirit, is equipped with Wi-Fi, which is included in the cruise package.

Is this Kosher Travelers expedition a good choice for solo travelers?

The Arctic cruises are an excellent choice for all travelers seeking unforgettable experiences and unique adventures. Joining an Arctic Kosher Travelers expedition provides a fantastic opportunity to meet like-minded individuals from around the world who share a passion for exploration and discovery. You'll have the chance to connect with fellow travelers, forge new friendships, and create lasting memories together. The supportive and inclusive environment on board ensures that solo travelers feel welcome and part of the expedition community.

What distinguishes expedition cruising as a unique mode of travel?
Unlike traditional cruises focused on entertainment, expedition cruising emphasizes adventure and education, typically to remote and challenging destinations. Our primary goal is to craft an intimate experience that deeply connects our guests with each destination. These journeys necessitate smaller, purpose-built vessels that strike a delicate balance between comfort and adaptability. The Sea Spirit offers boutique accommodation complemented by a team of polar experts with specialized knowledge, distinguishing it from conventional cruises.

What do I do if I get seasick?

Individuals may react differently to the rare choppy waters. Preventative sea sickness pills will be available at expedition desk.

However, the seas are generally calm in The Arctic.

How cold will it get during my voyage?

We cruise during the Arctic summer. We travel in summer, with temperatures typically averaging around +10°C / 50°F (range +2°C to +18°C). Svalbard is relatively dry, making conditions quite comfortable. The ship temperature control will be at comfortable and constant 22°C

Why is the experience on smaller ships critical for The Arctic expeditions?
Smaller vessels provide enhanced flexibility and customization, facilitating swift transfers, embarkations, and landings. With a low guest-to-guide ratio, we can make spontaneous itinerary adjustments and facilitate unique wildlife encounters, ensuring a dynamic and personalized voyage that larger ships cannot replicate. If there's a nearby pod of whales, for instance, we can alter our course swiftly.

The Arctic Treaty restricts shore visits to a maximum of 100 guests ashore at a time. Larger ships must organize visits in groups, rotating guests. In contrast, all Sea Spirit guests can disembark simultaneously, maximizing their time on land. Furthermore, during meals, our polar experts engage in one-on-one conversations with guests, fostering meaningful connections and deeper explorations of any topic.

How would you characterize the expedition experience for guests?
This remarkable expedition departs from the far northern settlement of Longyearbyen on the Norwegian Arctic island of Spitsbergen in the famed Svalbard archipelago. We explore the island's northwestern coast, home to dramatic mountain scenery, tidewater glaciers, and some of the Arctic's best wildlife viewing opportunities.
On this voyage we also venture to the jumbled edge of the north-polar ice cap in search of polar bears stalking their prey. Here, at the dynamic boundary between implacable ice and bountiful sea, we have a rare opportunity to experience raw nature and incredible events hardly ever seen. At the core of Sea Spirit expeditions is the formation of a tight-knit community of explorers. We encourage travelers not only to observe but to actively participate in this journey, contributing their own narrative to the exploration saga.
This shared adventure fosters bonds among guests, expedition guides, and crew, united in their reverence for the Artics's awe-inspiring beauty, creating enduring memories and personal transformations.

Important Information:
While Kosher Travelers will make every effort to adhere to the planned itinerary, changes in the program and/or travel dates may occur due to factors beyond our control, such as weather conditions, and border or port closures. The cancellation of any service affected by circumstances such as force majeure does not entitle travelers to receive compensation.

Although we strive to adhere to published schedules, changes may arise for various reasons. Ultimately, decisions regarding sailing routes, itinerary sequence, and activity content rest with the ship's crew, prioritizing passenger safety. It is important to note that all guides and the ship's crew communicate solely in English. Wildlife behavior, viewing distances, and sightings cannot be guaranteed, however, all efforts will be made to see as much wildlife as possible.
